

Press Release

New Residential Trips for Forms III & IV

It has long been the tradition at Seaton House for our senior girls in our Forms V & VI to spend a spring activity week by the coast in Bude, Cornwall and for many this is the first time they have spent nights away from home. Although always looked forward to, for some it is a little daunting and so to work up to a week away, Seaton House has introduced two new one and two night residential visits for our younger girls in Forms III & IV.

Form III visited High Ashurst activity centre at Box Hill near Dorking, where they had a one night stay and experienced high wire walking and rock climbing amongst a variety of activities.

Form IV went a little further away to Tunbridge Wells in Kent, to Bowles Activity Centre for a two night visit with a programme of seven different activities including skiing, zip wire riding, bouldering, teamwork games and bushcraft skills.

Both trips were a huge success and we expect will become a firm fixture in the calendar of events for Seaton House.

Some of the comments written by Form III about their experiences at High Ashurst

*Out of the activities we did first was abseiling (going down a wall backwards). It was a really fun way to start a new experience. Sahar

*The best bit of the Woodland Skills activity was the den building. It was really cool! Scarlett

*Next we did the rock climbing. I was a bit scared but when I got on I was eager to go higher but then I asked to get down. When I got down, I wanted to climb back up. Zainab

*The best bit was eating marshmallows by the fire. I really enjoyed my first overnight school trip. Chiara

*My favourite bit of the trip was the catwalk and the koala roll off, because it was the most exciting. Alice

*After we walked up the hill some more and arrived at a gated place then we had to wear hard hats and separated into groups one and two for climbing and abseiling. Charlotte

*At school I had thought the low ropes were not exciting but in the end it was my third favourite. Christyn

For further information contact Val Mathews, Marketing Manager

marketing@seatonhouse.sutton.sch.uk www.seatonhouse.sutton.sch.uk